

draft working paper - central intelligence agency - 1 for an overview, see j , hearts and minds: three case studies of the cia's covert support of american anticommunist groups in the cold war, 1949-1967 (washington, dc: central intelligence agency, 1999), (s). torchbearers of freedom - amazon s3 - hearts of people through-out history. it is a dream of freedom "a driving hope to be free, to choose one's own destiny apart from the control of a dictator or tyrant. for countless souls and untold years, the cry for freedom could only be whispered in secret. it has been written on rock or scribbled on parchment and passed from cell to cell in dungeons. this heart's cry has been portrayed ... war of nerves: psychological landscapes of the cold war - origin of the idea of brainwashing in the korean war of 1950-53. every man has his breaking point highlights ronald reagan's role, first as actor and then as politician, in the framing of the american pow experience. come wind, come weather - ths-baptist - edvard foster, his senior dc